

In The Pink (or thereabouts)

By Garry Sankowsky

The heavy rain during and following the cyclone really saturated the soil and because of this most plants are continuing to push out new growth. Usually at this time of the year the garden is looking dull and lifeless, but not this year.

Acmena sp. Stockwellia site

Anthocarapa nitidula

Blechnum articulatum

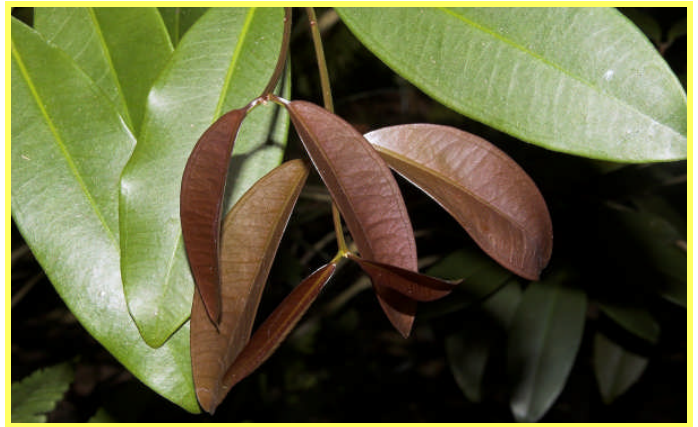

Blechnum whelanii

Buckinghamia ferruginiflora

Noahdendron nicholasii

Pilidiostigma papuanum

Hibiscus macilwraithensis

Syzygium cormiflorum

Vitex trifoliata

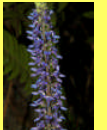

Argyrodendron actinophyllum

Argyrodendron sp. Whyanbeel

This Month In The Garden

From left to right:- Leafwing Butterfly, Adiantum sp. Walsh River, Adiantum diaphanum, Bowenia spectabilis, Fungi, Phaleria sp. Aff. Chermsideana, Plectranthus sp. Font Hills.