Unidentified fly

Skipper

Some small butterflies have to crawl down into the flower to get at the nectar but not this one.

White Lineblue

The larvae of the White Lineblue feed on Rapanea, especially Rapanea variabilis.

Common Albatross—female

The Albatross butterflies overwinter in our garden, taking a bit of nectar from time to time. Their host plant is Drypetes.

Common Albatross —male

Albatross butterflies photographed with Nikon D70S, all other images taken with Pentax *istDL.
